Executive Director of Environmental Health

Who we are

The voice of environmental health

- We are the membership and awarding body for environmental health – supporting about 7,500 members across the public, private and third sector
- We are leaders – we're shaping the future of environmental health by putting members at the heart of the debate, raising the profile of environmental health careers, and campaigning and working with government on key issues
- We are a professional body – we hold a Royal Charter and as a not for profit organization we exist for public benefit
- We are a community – we're the only body to bring the five pillars of environmental health together

Delivering our charter

- Our Charitable Objects - to promote and disseminate all aspects of environmental health for public benefit
- To provide advice and assistance to governmental and nongovernmental organisations
- Promoting education (and educational activities), training & matters relating to environmental health
- Promote research
- Organise conferences, exhibitions, meetings relating to EH
- Approve and accredit EH courses of training
- Offer awards
- Promote high standards of practice and professional conduct
- Maintain registers

Noise: CIEH Policy Activity

Chartered Institute of Environmental Health

- Members of our Environmental Protection Advisory Panel gave oral evidence on noise pollution to the House of Lords Science and Technology committee
- Published guidance on decision making processes to be considered during planning
- Worked with Institute of Acoustics (IoA) on two briefing notes mitigating the potential noise impacts of heat pumps
- Worked with IoA on Gym Acoustics Guidance
- Worked with national press
- Joining the dots between noise and mental health
- Currently working on noise guidance in the entertainment sector looking at Noise as health and safety and Env issue
- EP panel members gave evidence to the climate change, environment and infrastructure at the Senedd well as Environmental impacts
- Responded to Welsh noise and soundscape consultation

Challenges

- Workforce challenges and risks to university places which is restricting our pipeline
- Training for newly qualified graduates
- Funding
- Lack of visibility of our work and public recognition
- Health V Wealth debate and smarter regulation risks
- Planning and promotion of good acoustic design, protection of amenity and LA's ability to influence nationally significant infrastructure projects
- Addressing noise in housing and as part of the Housing Health and Safety Rating System
- Societal changes and erosion of community leading to an increase in nuisance complaints

Campaigns

Our campaigns draw attention to particular issues and call for local authorities and government to make changes that will improve health and wellbeing for all.

Air quality

Good air quality is a basic determinant of health, and we're making it a priority.
